

PRAYER

A shrill scream echoing from the bowels of the Abyss is an all too predictable, even anticipated, event. We no longer even stop to contemplate the horror it reveals or the unimaginable agony of the creature who bellowed it.

They always do that. It is Tuesday, after all. In ten minutes, there will be another. Then another. Like clockwork. The howls of existential torment as souls are slowly torn apart constitute the inevitable noise that serenades the modern workday. After a while, you literally don't even hear it anymore.

It's an unpleasant thought anyway. What can be done? The world will always contain suffering. That's just the way it is. I can't change it. Can you change it? Yeah, I thought not. So, it's best for your own mental health to put it out of your mind. Put in a pair of wireless Bluetooth 3-driver sonic surround earbuds if it helps. The new version just released yesterday. They're now available in chartreuse. Treat yourself. You've earned it.

Why do you still look so distraught? I'm getting tired of talking about that subject. I'm about this close to kicking your ass if you don't get your head in the game and focus. And I say that out of love because it's for your own good.

If you're not careful, you could slip. I've seen it happen. And you don't want that. I don't want to even talk about what might happen if you slip. But I can say that it can happen to good workers like yourself. I've seen it happen. So do us both a favor and keep your mind on your grind.

God fucking damn it!

Where are you going? Hey! Don't go that way! Look, I'll tell the Imperatur you're sick. It'll be fine. Take a mental health day. You look like you need it. I'll text you later.

Wait! What are you doing? Can't you see it right in front of you? That's the Abyss! That's where you end up if you slip. That's the last place you want to be. Weren't we just talking about all of that insufferable, relentless wailing?

Dear lord... You've lost your mind!

Do you seriously intend to enter it... on purpose?

There's no coming back, you know!